AEgis Technologies aids Iraq veteran and family in need

Huntsville, Alabama, February 28, 2008 – The AEgis Technologies Group and its employees, upon hearing about serviceman Todd Foster and his family losing their home and possessions in a fire on January 21, 2008, made a donation in the amount of $1360 in cash to the Foster Family Fire Fund set up by Redstone Federal Credit Union. In addition, numerous articles of clothing and household items were donated in conjunction with the efforts of the Asbury Thrift Store to help this family get back on their feet.

The spirit of generosity spread from the corporate headquarters in Huntsville to AEgis' satellite offices in Orlando, FL, and friends and church families of employees throughout the Tennessee Valley. Additional monetary donations and over three truck loads of goods including furniture, household items and clothing were collected and delivered over a period of three weeks.

“AEgis employees are a generous and caring group of individuals. We hold the men and women in our armed forces in high regard and are proud to come to their aid when called upon”, said Steve Hill, Chief Executive Officer of AEgis Technologies.
